Q.4 Now let me read you two statements. Please tell me which comes closer to your own view, even if neither is exactly right.

The oil and gas industry dumps millions of tons of methane and toxic pollutants like benzene into our air each year. These toxic pollutants are linked to cancer and contribute to childhood asthma attacks. We cannot trust oil and gas companies to voluntarily limit their own pollution. Instead, we need scientists at the Environmental Protection Agency to set enforceable methane pollution standards.

OR

More one size fits all regulations from Washington will increase energy prices and cost jobs. Oil and gas companies have already significantly cut methane emissions and the industry can solve this problem on its own. We don't need more interference by unelected bureaucrats at the Environmental Protection Agency.
