Lung cancer screening means testing for lung cancer before a person has any symptoms. Right now, many insurance companies are covering this service for those considered to be at high risk. However, before you decide to get a lung cancer screening, it is important to know exactly what your insurance will cover. Use the questions below as a guide for your conversations with your insurance company.

How Do I Contact My Insurance Company?
On the back of your insurance card, there will be a phone number for you to call. You will likely be asked for your plan information and group ID.

Questions to Ask when Planning for Screening

☐ Has my insurance company put together a website or a flyer on lung cancer screening coverage issues?
☐ Do I need to go to my primary care provider/my doctor before I get screened to get a referral or determine if screening is appropriate for me?
☐ What paperwork do I need to complete before, during or after that visit to ensure my screening is covered by insurance?

Notes:

Questions to Ask about Scheduling the Screening

Do I need a referral or preauthorization?
   a. If so, from whom?
   b. Who must this referral or preauthorization be sent to?
   c. Will my physician submit it or must I?
Is there a certain place (facility or center) I need to go to for my screening?
   a. If the nearest facility is too far away from where I live, what do I do?
Will my insurance cover my travel expenses to the screening?
